From the Desk of Fr. Mark

Hi, everybody. I just got in from garden work. I told the staff this morning not to expect to see me, as I was going to do garden work. At this time of year, it is weed time. The "crops" are in, but there is still serious weeding that needs to be done so that the harvest is good. I hope that you don't mind that I think and pray for the parishioners as I yank on the weeds. I do a lot of praying as I work. So this morning I got to say lots of prayers for and thanksgiving for my family and parish families

I'd like to give you a rundown on my garden work this morning. Some weeds, like the grasses, are clumped together and are hard to pull because there are so many roots in one congested area. If you pull those weeds, the vegetable comes with it. There are red rooted weeds that are deep and difficult to pull, but if you don't get the whole root, it comes right back with a vengeance. And then some weeds are sticky and hurt when you pull them. And then there are the small weeds that are easy to pull, but if you don't get them early, they take over. Since weeds in the scriptures are often associated with sin, I thought I would make sin my reflection this morning.

For those grassy weeds, I thought of how quickly I could get entangled with the world. The world isn't bad, but too much of anything can smother you. I don't want to be taken out of the world, but want to coexist in such a way that I am rooted in God, rather than tied to only earthly things. I need to set boundaries so that I take care of the spiritual side of me and respect the earthly side of me. A proper balance of life keeps God always up front, while still living with two feet on the ground. I need to be grounded in God and the world. If I stop saying my prayers or stop making Sunday important in my spiritual life, I can get out of balance pretty quickly.

The red rooted sins are those which have been growing for a while. I think of the different prejudices I have had over the years which keep me from producing a hundredfold. Attitudes regarding race, creed and gender might have been growing in me from my childhood, but that does not mean that I can just let them keep growing. To reduce the amount of prejudicial jokes that I tell may help on the surface, but I need to address the depth of my heart if I truly love my fellow human being. Those red roots remind me to look at where my heart lies.

Thistles are just hurtful weeds. I thought back to New Zealand and thistles. In America, we have Canadian thistles. In New Zealand, there are American thistles. They are the same thistle. You just blame the thistle on someone else. I think those sins are the gossip kind of thistles. They seem small enough, but they sure can hurt someone. To get a good grasp of a thistle and pull it out is hurtful. To stop gossip in the midst of your friends can hurt, also. To stick up for someone rather than stick it to someone is not always easy, but is the right thing to do.

The small weeds grow up if they are not handled early. To think that I can text just a little bit while driving can become deadly. Just one more drink can become one too many. There are many little things which grow up in our lives that keep us from being all that God wants us to be. Just five more minutes on the computer are five minutes away from loving family, friends and God. For those Andy Griffith enthusiasts, as Barney would say, "Nip it in the bud." Trim that part out of my life before it gets too large.

My garden looks much better after weeding. I'm sure my spiritual life would look a bit better if I took some time in my spiritual garden. Have a great week, everyone. Fr. Mark

Parish Cook Book!!!

We're excited, as we had our first submissions already this past week! Here are the instructions:

1. Make your recipe.
2. Take a picture of your finished product.
3. Send an email to: kalida.stmichaelyouth@bright.net with your picture and your typed recipe.
4. Include a category with your recipe from this list: appetizers, soups & salads, vegetables/sides, main dishes, breads, desserts or miscellaneous.

Do I really need to submit a picture? YES, pictures are fun and eye-catching and no, you don't have to be in the picture, but YES, we'd love you to be!

Will you come take a picture of the food for me? YES! Call 419-532-3474 and we will take your picture with the food or just take a picture of your food.

Does the recipe have to be mine? Absolutely not. It can be something you found on the internet that you enjoy.

Should I submit a.s.a.p.? This would be helpful. Plus, if there are two similar recipes submitted, we will take the first one :)

If it's someone else's recipe, you can send a photo of them to be included, if you'd like, and/or a story about the recipe.

RCIA Class Forming!!!

If you know of someone who is considering joining the Catholic Church, encourage them to take a look at joining the St. John's/ St. Michaels RCIA class starting this September thru Easter Vigil. The Rite of Christian Initiation of Adults prepares someone to understand and join the Catholic Church and ends with the sacraments of initiation – Baptism, Confirmation and Holy Communion. If you or someone you encourage is interested, contact Fr. Mark or the parish office to learn more. We typically meet Tuesday evenings, but can make any schedule work!

Outdoor Mass at Continental - Sunday, Aug. 4
